with apprenticeships & traineeships

What is an apprenticeship/ traineeship?

An apprenticeship or traineeship offers a great opportunity to gain practical experience and theoretical knowledge while earning a wage. It involves working for an employer while also pursuing a course of study, enabling you to develop valuable real-world skills and obtain a recognised qualification. This unique combination of work and learning equips you with the tools and expertise needed to succeed in your chosen field.

Apprenticeships typically involve a comprehensive training program that lasts for about three to four years, while traineeships are shorter and can usually be completed within one to two years. Both apprenticeships and traineeships provide valuable hands-on experience and training in specific fields or industries.

What is a Group Training Organisation (GTO)?

Group Training Organisations play a vital role in recruiting and training apprentices and trainees by carefully selecting and matching them with businesses (host employers). In addition to arranging these placements, they also provide ongoing support to both the apprentices, trainees and the host employers throughout the training period.
